VOL. X.

MILAN, TENN., SEPTEMBER 1, 1883.

NO. 27.

CHAPTER V.

In our last chapter we spoke of the boys in attendance at the Great Southern Exposition at Louisville, Ky.; this week we intend to devote a few words to the ladies—God bless them! What would the Exposition be—as great as it is—without the ladies? We might go a great deal further and ask: what would the world be without woman? but for fear of getting entangled in the subject we will at present speak of the ladies who fit in and out, around and about the Great Southern Exposition building, like so many brilliantly plumed birds; it has been remarked time and again by visitors to the Exposition that the ladies dress so elegantly and withal in such perfect good taste, and right here is a lesson that the man should study with advantage and profit to themselves. It is often asserted that the "tailor makes the man" but it still remains an open question whether the "modiste" makes the woman. Nevertheless it is within the power of man to make his personal appearance attractive and pleasing to the eye; and who else must he apply to than the tailor? Louisville is a large city, and there are other large cities, but very few, if any one, can boast of a Merchant Tailor establishment of the magnitude and reputation of J. Winter & Co., corner of Third and Mark t Streets, Louisville, Ky. The fame of this house is not confined to any particular section; it is almost national—their patrons number thousands, and represent fifteen States! No doubt there are readers of this chapter to-day who can, from personal experience, recommend J. Winter & Co. to the fullest extent. The house has ample capital to buy for cash, in unbroken packages, direct from the looms, both in this country and in Europe, thereby saving many "middleman" profits, and gaining discounts for cash. All of these advantages are given to the customer. Some people wonder why J. Winter & Co. can make the same suit cheaper than other tailors' but this is nothing surprising when the facts are understood. We buy largely—no cut pieces—often an entire bale or case—of course we buy much cheaper than the ordinary tailor, who buys a pattern only 3/4 or 7 yards, or may be only 1 1/4 yards. Our immense business requires an immense assortment of goods, and anybody can suit himself here. We employ an army of tailors, to whom we give steady work all the year round, and by this we have the best work at low prices. Our cutters are artists. We use the best of trimmings, the best workmanship, and the lowest prices. Visitors to the Great Southern Exposition will find it a pleasure to be shown through the establishment of J. Winter & Co. The entire second floor of their building takes in the Merchant Tailoring Department. Leave home in your old clothes—two days suffice to build up for you a new suit by measure taken.

SMALL CHANGE.

The Milan Band was the favorite in Trenton last Thursday.

The Trenton cotton-seed oil mill will begin work on the first of October.

The L. & N. folks had big, crowded passenger trains both ways yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Garrett, of Humboldt, has been preaching at the Methodist church this week. The Rev. B. F. Peoples occupied the pulpit Monday night.

Prayer meetings are held every morning and preaching at night in both the Methodist and Baptist churches here. Considerable interest is manifested at both.

The Rev. Mr. Gates, of Brownsville, has been preaching at the Baptist church this week. We hear that there have been some twelve or fifteen additions to the church. The meeting still continues.

The Lavinia and Milan baseball clubs played a game here last Saturday, Milan winning by one score. The second nine of Milan played a picked nine at Humboldt last Saturday. The score was 25 to 37 in favor of Humboldt.

The Trenton grand jury report fourteen inmates at the poor house, and well cared for. They recommended considerable repairs. They found the jail in good condition. They recommend, also, that the Sheriff's bond be strengthened.

A construction train on the Illinois Central, three miles north of Canton, while backing, ran over a cow, which resulted in the wreck of twenty-six cars and tore up the track for nearly half a mile. All trains were delayed in consequence of the wreck.

The Rev. Dr. John B. McFerrin, one of the oldest, best known and ablest preachers of the M. E. church, south, preached here Tuesday night. His sermon was a plain, simple message from the Master, and had a melting, reviving influence on the people.

Mr. E. E. Benton has assumed editorial charge of the Humboldt Argus, or the "Fruit and Farm Reporter," as it will appear in future. As its name indicates, it will be devoted principally to horticulture, live stock and grasses. The Exchange extends its kindest wishes for its prosperity.

Humboldt Argus: A young printer giving his name as Cecil Beaumont hired a horse from Mr. Senter's stable last Monday evening to be gone to the country a few hours. Upon his failure to return at the appointed time Mr. Senter instituted search for him. Going to Jackson he telephoned to Lexington and learned that the young man and horse were there. Mr. S. sent one of his men and a constable after the absconding youth, and they returned to this place Thursday evening and lodged the young man in the calaboose. In default of $1000 bail he was sent to Trenton jail.

Fatal Accident.

On last Tuesday, while out hunting, Willie Smith, son of Cyrus Smith, at Pratt's school house, a few miles south of town, was fatally shot in the hip by his little brother Henry. The latter had never handled a gun before, and was walking behind his brother, it is thought with the gun cocked, swinging it in his hand, when it was discharged, the whole load of shot entering in one place. Willie lived until next day, but could not be saved, although he had the most skillful medical attention.

MILAN COLLEGE.

I take pleasure in announcing to the people of Gibson county that the prospects for the approaching session of the Milan College are indicative of splendid success. Owing to various causes, the exercises of this institution will not open until Sept. 10th. Prof. Von Strantz, teacher of French, German and Book-keeping, will arrive in Milan Sunday. Miss Riddle comes Monday. The Professor of Mathematics will be in Milan sometime during the next week. Subscriptions are being liberally made for repairs on the College building, and in the next issue of the Exchange will be found the names of our generous subscribers, with the amount they give. We wish to raise $100.00. The people are united on this question, the Faculty complete, the building will be well repaired, and Milan College can confidently look forward to the ensuing term, as one which will place her on a level with the high plane she occupied many years ago.

The school will positively open Monday, Sept. 10th, and there is no foundation for the rumor that I was troubled about securing teachers. Miss Riddle was a little tardy, but comes at last, and I have everything to make me enthusiastic.

Respectfully,
JNO. C. LANGSTON.

Soldiers' Reunion.

The soldiers' reunion in Trenton last Thursday was attended by three or four thousand people, and was a most enjoyable affair. The immense crowd was one of the most orderly we ever saw, nothing occurring to mar the pleasure of the occasion. Hon. John M. Bright delivered a masterly address. His eulogy on Lee, Jackson and Forrest was the finest we have heard. Gen. Alex. W. Campbell's oration was eloquent and inspiring, as is always the case when he speaks. His sore throat was a great trial to him, though. Speeches were also made by Hon. B. Boyett, Hon. A. T. Fielder, Col. Tansel, Hon. D. E. Parker, Hon. M. M. Neil, Hon. R. W. Haywood, Col. Clark and others. An abundance of rations fed the large crowd. The music was furnished by the Trenton, Gadsden and Milan bands, and the procession was a long one. Capt. Everett Bell and his impromptu artillery company showed off well and fired salutes throughout the day. Altogether, it was a pleasant affair, and we hope to see it repeated.

Cotton Bolls.

Open cotton bolls were brought to us last Saturday by John Dinwiddie, colored, who has a crop of ten acres on Dr. John Scott's farm, three miles south of here. He had some open one week before, he says. He also expects to make eight bales on the ten acres.

Thos Sturdivant, colored, brought in some on Monday, which grew on Capt. E. H. Williams' farm, at Hope Hill. He also has a fine crop. Picking will begin about next Monday.

Mayo, Covington & Co. have just received a new and full line of Fancy candies and other goods. The young ladies will make a note of it.

To All Interested.

I recommend to you B. C. Kelsay, the Natural Doctor. He has cured me of a long standing case of Diabetes. Respectfully,
REV. J. A. KEATON.

A Trip to the Barbecue at Gadsden.

Editor Exchange:
We left Milan at 9:40 and arrived at Gadsden at 11. There we were met at the depot by the Gadsden Cornet Band, which played several pieces. We were then escorted to the barbecue grounds by Mr. P. Henderson, where we had the pleasure of hearing Col. Rob't. Gates, of the Tribune & Sun, Jackson, deliver a fine speech for near two hours. After the speaking we put on our baseball suits. The baseball boys were all presented with tickets for dinner by Mr. Henderson. The tables were inclosed by ropes and the meats were well barbecued, and we think no one left hungry, as we heard no complaint. The next attraction was the game of baseball, in which the general opinion was that the Humboldts would come out victorious, as they had not lost a game this season. We knew we had a good nine to beat, and we did our best, which proved to be too much for the Humboldts. Our pitcher, Ef. Williamson, sent the balls from his shoulder as if they were shot out of a cannon and the Humboldts could not get in on them. Our little catcher, Hugh McDonald, stood up behind the bat and took them in. The balls would sometimes nearly knock him down, but nevertheless he stood and took the pounding from beginning to end. He is a hero. We gave them two "goose eggs," but they did not get to charge us up with any. The score was 20 to 13 in favor of Milan. Umpire, Walter Moore. Before closing I desire to thank Mr. P. Henderson for favors shown the Milan club.

A Card.

Mr. Editor:
You say in your issue of the 25th inst., that A. B. Hurt died of Typhoid fever and that he had been sick two or three weeks with that disease. I don't know from whom you received your information, unless from some person ignorant of his disease. Certainly not from a medical man, as he would be deemed inexcusably ignorant among medical men to make such a mistake; and that, too, when such a mistake might cost the patient his life. I take this method of correcting the error and to say that Mr. A. B. Hurt died of Typhoid-Dysentery, a disease prevailing extensively in his neighborhood.
